CHAPTER 100

OFFICIAL RESIDENCE EXPENSES

410 DESCRIPTION

411 Definitions

- a. "Principal representative" means a senior official of the United States Government serving in a foreign country who has been designated by the Secretary of State as occupying a position of such importance that the Government should defray the unusual expenses incident to the operation and maintenance of his official residence.
- b. "Official residence" means the residence designated by the head of agency for occupancy by a principal representative of an agency. The term "official residence" includes the building and grounds
 - (1) purchased or leased by the Government and assigned to a principal representative, or
 - (2) leased or owned by a principal representative, or by a member of his family, and occupied by the principal representative as his residence.
- c. "Official residence expenses" means the unusual expenses which a principal representative is obliged to incur in the operation and maintenance of a suitable official residence. These expenses must be in excess of the usual expenses incident to the operation and maintenance of the residence he would occupy if he were serving at the post in any other capacity.
- d. "Household servant" means a servant employed to perform household duties within the official residence.
- * e. "Servants' maintenance" means the board, lodging, clothing, local transportation, medical and dental care, social security and other assessments, gratuities, burial expenses, and so forth, which are required in accordance with local law or custom to be provided by the principal representative in addition to wages. Transportation costs described in section 431 also are considered to be a part of servants' maintenance.
- * f. "Usual expenses" means the expenses incurred by employees in operating and maintaining a residence at the post other than an "official residence" (see section 411b). The usual expenses for servants are shown by employee grade level in the table in section 440.

412 Scope

The defraying of official residence expenses is intended to make possible the operation and maintenance of official residences in which principal representatives can properly represent the United States abroad by extending official (as distinct from personal) hospitality to foreign dignitaries and important visitors, by receiving official deputations and callers, and by holding requisite and appropriate ceremonies smoothly and with dignity. Also, payment of official residence expenses is intended to keep the official residences staffed and in operation, to the extent necessary, even during intervals between the departure of an officer because of recall, transfer, or some other reason, and his return or the arrival of his successor. Payment of official residence expenses should not be considered to be a gratuity, allowance, or other emolument.

* 420 DESIGNATIONS

421 Designation of Principal Representatives

The Secretary of State will designate the positions whose incumbents shall be considered principal representatives for purposes of this chapter.

422 Designation of Official Residences

The head of agency shall determine which residences at a post shall be considered as official residences for occupancy by principal representatives. When a principal representative is expected to be absent from his post for a period in excess of 30 consecutive calendar days, the head of agency may in addition designate as a temporary official residence the residence of the employee acting for the principal representative.

* 430 OFFICIAL RESIDENCE EXPENSE DURING ABSENCE OF PRINCIPAL REPRESENTATIVE

Unusual expenses defined in section 411c which are incurred in the following circumstances may be charged as official residence expenses in accordance with provisions of sections 440 and 450 when pertinent:

- a. When an employee is authorized by the head of agency to occupy the official residence during the absence from the post of the principal representative; (If the head of agency determines it to be necessary for such an employee to maintain and operate another residence at the post while occupying the official residence, the "usual" and "unusual" expenses (see sections 411c and 411f) of maintaining and operating the official residence may be charged as official residence expenses.)
- b. During periods when the official residence is unoccupied;
- c. When the residence of another employee who is acting for the principal representative is temporarily designated as an official residence. (See section 422.)
